

CRYPTO*in*Q

Everyone is jumping on the bandwagon calling Aptos a scam and a VC pump and dump But the truth is, every major coin has large amounts of VC funding Solana, Polygon, Avax, Quant, Hedera, Elgarand all had 20 to 200 million dollars of VC money Yes, some projects like ICP dump on listing when the listing price is very high and the tokenomics is rigged But why would you write off Aptos before it even starts trading? Instead, you should watch the listing price and compare it to similar projects to see if it's undervalued or overvalued You should also check the tokenomics to see if early investors have their tokens locked up or if they can actually dump And last but not least, it's always a good idea to try out a new ecosystem to see if the network is smooth and if there are actually good projects Don't be lazy and write off a new ecosystem before it even launches I don't have any money or interest in Aptos, but I will try out the ecosystem in case it becomes big in the next couple weeks. 0
